DICKISON, WILLIAM B.: Farmer; was born February 9, 1834 in Indiana. His parents were Griffith and Achsah (Bennett) Dickison, the latter a native of Chautauqua County, New York. John Dickison, his grandfather, settled at Mossville, in 1835, with his wife, Mary (White) Dickison, his brother Griffith and Aaron G. Wilkinson. In 1855, William B. Dickison and his father bought a farm in Section 35, Radnor Township, and later, for a quarter of a century, they lived in Richwoods Township, where the former filled the office of Supervisor. March 15, 1855. Mr. Dickison married Anna Wilkinson, in Radnor Township. She was born in Indiana, March 15, 1835, a daughter of Aaron G. and Sarah (Harlan) Wilkinson, natives respectively of Virginia and Ohio. Her grandparents in the maternal line were Joseph and Sarah J. Harlan, he born in Ohio, she in Maryland. To Mr. and Mrs. Dickison were born three children: Elizabeth B., Charles D. and William Ernest. Elizabeth B. married Frank P. Epperson, now deceased. Charles D. married Flora Frye, who was born in Kickapoo Township, in 1858, a daughter of Henry A. and Anna (Deen) Frye, born in Pennsylvania, and at Cincinnati, Ohio, respectively, and is the owner of a fine farm of 160 acres in connection with which he manages a dairy, selling milk in Peoria. He is a Mason and has been School Director. His three children are named Elva May, Anna Elizabeth, and William E. Mrs. William B. Dickison is a Presbyterian. She and her daughter, Mrs. Epperson, also a widow, live at 1001 Knoxville Avenue, Peoria.

Notes for Ann W. Wilkinson:

Obituary Notice. The Peoria Journal; June 29, 1925, p. 14:

Mrs. Ann Dickison

Mrs. Ann Dickison, a former resident of Peoria and widow of W.B. Dickison, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Epperson of Berkeley, Cal., June 25, aged 90 years, 3 months and 10 days.

The body is being brought to Peoria for burial. Funeral services will be held at the Ziegler chapel on Wednesday, July 1, at 2 o'clock.

Interment will be in the Dickison Cemetery, near Dunlap, Ill.

The Peoria Star; July 1, 1925, p. 20:

Mrs. Ann Dickison Rites Held Today

Ninety years ago in 1835, Aaron Wilkinson came by ox team from Rockport, Ind., overland and settled in the fertile Kickapoo valley in the vicinity of Dunlap. The youngest member of the pioneer family was Ann, a baby of six months. She grew to gracious womanhood and in 1855 became the wife of William B. Dickison. She resided in Peoria County until four years ago and then took up her residence in Berkeley, Cal. where she had previously spent several winters.

She passed away on Monday, June 25, at the great age of 90 years, three months and ten days, and last evening the body, accompanied by Mrs. E. D. Epperson, her daughter, and Mrs. W.H. Lambert, her grand-daughter, arrived here. The funeral was this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Ziegler mortuary chapel and the interment was in the Dickison Cemetery.

Mrs. Dickison is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Epperson, and one son, Chas. D. Dickison of Peoria. One son, Ernest, is dead. Mrs. Dickison lived to see 17 grandchildren and 18 great grandchildren. She was a remarkable woman - the type that made the country great, that made its homes the sheet anchor of the nation. Her friendships were many and sincere and in her passing there is sorrow, but it is the sorrow tempered and softened by tenderest memories of a long lifetime of truest womanhood and devotion.

GRIFFITH DICKINSON was born in the territory of Indiana, on the 27th day of November 1811, in what is now Switzerland county. His father, John Dickinson, was a native of Maryland, and emigrated to Indiana when a small boy. He married Mary White. The subject of this memoir is the oldest child. His early life was spent in the wilderness of that frontier territory, where he enjoyed but limited advantages of education. He was brought up on a farm till the age of twenty-four years when he came to Peoria with his wife and two children, having married in his native place Miss Achsah Bennett, a native of Western New York. Mr. Dickinson came to Peoria in a four-horse wagon, arriving here on the 24th of April, 1835. He rented land for a few years near Mossville and afterwards purchased the same, remaining on it about one year, when he sold out in consequence of the unhealthiness of the place, and bought six miles west, in the town of Radnor, where he remained till 1866 when he came and bought the place where William Giles now resides. In February, 1873, he sold that place, and the same day purchased the place where he now resides, on the Knoxville road, two miles from the court house square. He has thirteen acres in this place, which makes a pleasant and valuable homestead.

Mr. Griffith Dickinson's principal business while living in the country was farming and handling stock. By economy, industry, and perseverance, he amassed a considerable fortune. He owns about a thousand acres of land of excellent quality on some of which he is pasturing and feeding large numbers of cattle. He has made money by speculating in lands and stocks, and has considerable in railroad shares and United States bonds.

In politics, Mr. Dickinson was originally a whig, but became a republican when the latter party was organized. He takes no active part in politics, except to make it a point to vote at each election, deeming that a duty of all good citizens. Mr. Dickinson is one of our most successful business men. His talents and energies as a financier, and his industry and good management in his business relations, have placed him in possession of a comfortable fortune, and he has a reputation for honor and integrity among his fellow citizens. His education has been mostly acquired in the school of experience, and he has a good knowledge of human nature, and is independent in his views and opinions. He has the esteem and confidence of a large circle of acquaintances.

His first wife died September 12, 1858. On the 24th of November, 1859, he was married to Miss Margaret Johnson of Peoria county, by whom he has three children. He has been married three times, and has had, in all, ten children.

RADNOR TOWNSHIP, By Napoleon Dunlap.

p. 791. One of the earliest, if not the first settler in the township, was Erastus Peet, who came in 1834. His little daughter of four years, having become lost, and a fire having swept over the prairie in the night time, she perished in the flames and her body was discovered the next day. Robert Cline came in 1835, from Oswego County, New York, and, after remaining two years at Hale's Mill, settled on Section 35, and two years later on Section 13. He was killed by lightning on April 21, 1849. William Gifford, who came from Barnstable, Massachusetts, in 1836, erected the first frame house, on the south half of Section 28. Moses Harlan settled on Section 22 in the same year. He was County Commissioner in 1838, and two years in the Legislature, 1838-40. His son, George B. Harlan, settled on Section 2 in 1836. He was a Justice of the Peace for some years and a member of the Board of Supervisors for one or two years, besides holding other local offices. William Knott settled on Section 26 in the same year; also John L. Wakefield, who came from Butler County, Ohio to Peoria County in 1834, but settled on Section 18 in Radnor in 1836. Aaron G. Wilkinson and his brother, Abner Russell, Calvin Blake, Charles, Richard and George Wilkins, Anson Bushnell his brothers, Horace and Alvin, Thomas Shaw, James _____ and his brother-in-law, Griffith Dickinson, all came about the year 1837.

p. 793. The first election in Radnor was held at the house of Alva Dunlap in 1842. It was then Benton Precinct, composed of Radnor and Kickapoo townships. An election had previously been held in the woods in Kickapoo, north of where the village now is. At this election in Radnor Smith Dunlap, father of the writer, was elected Justice of the Peace, and continued to serve in that capacity until the adoption of township organization. The first annual town meeting of the Town of Benton (afterwards named Radnor) was held at the residence of Jonathan Brassfield. Alva Dunlap was chosen Moderator and Nathaniel T. A. Shaw, Clerk; Jonathan Brassfield was elected Supervisor; Nathaniel T.A. Shaw, Town Clerk; Lewis Harlan, Assessor; Jonathan Brassfield, Griffith Dickinson and William Wilkinson, Commissioners of Highways; Phineas R. Wilkinson, Collector; Lorennes Shaw, Overseer of the Poor; George B. Harlan and Smith Dunlap, Justices of the Peace; John M. Hendricks and Phineas R. Wilkinson, Constables. Fifteen dollars were appropriated for contingent expenses and fifty dollars for road purposes.

p. 794. (RE: January 1843 meeting of the Board of Trustees.) The office of Trustee having now become elective, Griffith Dickinson, Horace Bushnell, Joseph Chapin, Jonathan Brassfield and Nelson Bristol were the first to be elected. Trustees before then having been appointed.

Notes for Achsah Bennett:

1935: Griffith and Achsah Bennett Dickison were cosigners of all deeds to Achsah's death. (This is why Wm. B., Abijah and Roxy were not able to claim any of his late holdings.) His divorced and his common-law wives did not sign any deeds after Achsah's death, but leaving heirs to claim Dower Rights and clouding all titles to that extent, until the Purchasers bought quit claim deeds from all heirs. The children of Achsah were estopped of their claims as she had signed deeds. (from notes of J.C. Huff, c. 1950)

HORTON CHAMBERLIN, the father of Mrs. Thomas Hough, of Medina Township, died at his home near Vevay, in Switzerland County, Ind., in the fall of 1836. He was born on the Hudson River, in New York, being a son of Aaron and Hannah (Runnels) Chamberlin, who were also natives of the Empire State, whence, after a few years of wedded life, they removed to Ohio and still later to Switzerland County, Ind. After having lived in that county some years, Aaron Chamberlin sold his property there, and removing to Iowa located on a farm a few miles west of the city of Burlington. There he and his wife spent the remainder of their days, the one living to the age of ninety-three and the other to that of eighty-six years. They were active members of the Old School Baptist Church, as was their son Horton and his wife, known to all their acquaintances as people of deep religious feeling and consistent lives. They had eight sons and two daughters, the daughters only being now alive.

Our subject was in his boyhood when his parents became residents of the Hoosier State, going into a new country near Vevay, where the boy became a man. He adopted the occupation of a farmer, making Switzerland County his home until death. His career was cut short in his thirtieth year, he having been born in 1807. He was a Whig in politics, and in religion of the Baptist faith, having a consistent Christian character. He married Jane Dickison, a native of Switzerland County, born near Vevay October 2, 1813. She was reared to womanhood in that county, continuing to reside there until a year after the death of her husband, when she came with her parents to Illinois, bringing with her three fatherless children. In Medina Township, this county, her son Francis died at the age of five years, and Aaron in 1862 after his marriage to Sarah Robinson and the birth of two children, mother and children also being now deceased.

The parents of Mrs. Chamberlin were John and Mary (White) Dickison, natives of Virginia and Kentucky, respectively. The former had been taken to Kentucky when young and had there grown to man's estate, crossing the Ohio River and making a settlement in the wilds of Switzerland County, Ind., while yet a single man. There he married his wife, who had been reared on the opposite side of the river. After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Dickison purchased new land, beginning to improve a home on which they continued to reside until 1837. They then emigrated to Illinois, settling in Medina Township, this county, which was their place of abode during the balance of their lives. Mr. Dickison was sixty-four years of age and his widow sixty-six when called whence. The latter was a Baptist. Their daughter, the wife of our subject, was the second child in a family of four sons and four daughters. Three of the latter are still living, all now quite old and all widows of farmers.

The only living child of our subject and his estimable wife is a daughter, Hannah M., wife of Thomas Hough, to whom she was married on the farm they now occupy. Mr. Hough had come to this county in 1859, since which time he has been successfully engaged in farming and stock-raising here. He has a fine farm, the most of which is under cultivation and well stocked, being also supplied with good farm buildings and all necessary implements and machines. He was born in Bucks County, Pa., near Doylestown, September 11, 1826, coming of old Pennsylvania stock, of the Quaker faith. He is the only son of his parents and has one sister living. He grew to manhood in his native county and was there first married to Isabella Polk. That lady was born and reared also in Bucks County, belonging to an old Pennsylvania family, many members of which were quite prominent. She died when but twenty-five years old, leaving two children - Robert and Isabel. The former married Barbara Knupp and is farming in Washington County, Iowa. The daughter is the wife of James H. Paden, a dealer in musical instruments in Greeley, Col.

Mr. Hough lived for a time in Montgomery County, Pa., whence he came to Illinois, subsequently marrying the daughter of our subject. She was born after the death of her father and was but nine months old when her mother came to this county. She was given good advantages and, becoming very well educated, taught school for a time before her marriage. Mr. Hough has also had some experience in pedagogical work. Both are numbered among the most intelligent citizens of this section, worthily filling their spheres in life and being useful to those about them. Mr. Hough has held the local offices of the township and has been Deacon in the Baptist Church, of which both he and his wife are active members; he is a sound Republican. Mr. and Mrs. Hough are the parents of four children, of whom Mary J. and Elizabeth died young, and John C. and Charles F. are still at home.

The original member of the Hough family in America came hither from London as early as 1664. The first to abandon the Quaker faith, to which the family adhered strictly for several generations, was Robert Hough, the father of Thomas Hough. That gentleman was a farmer, occupying an estate which had been in the family three generations, in Doylestown Township, Bucks County, Pa. He was an ardent Whig, prominent in local politics. He died when fifty-five years of age. His wife was Miss Mary Evans, of the same county, who survived him, dying in 1876, at the age of seventy six years; she was a Baptist. Robert Hough was the son of Richard Hough, and he the son of Joseph Hough. Going back yet another generation we find another Richard Hough, who, on settling in America, secured land from King George III, the same being held by his direct descendants until the death of Robert Hough. The family during all these generations were farmers, prominent among the citizens of Buck County.

JOHN STURM. Among the early settlers of Medina Township whose life work has been successfully pursued, may be numbered John Sturm, now deceased. He was a fine representative of the hard-working, progressive agriculturist, and of the man of studious habits, intelligence and upright character. Beginning his career with a small capital, he acquired a landed estate of about thirteen hundred acres, the greater part of which was place under good cultivation prior to his death. By reason of his enterprise and interest in the material prosperity and increase in civilization of this section, he became influential in the community, but not as a politician or public officer. He had no desire for official honors, being content to act well his part as a private citizen.

Mr. Sturm was a son of the Buckeye State, born January 25, 1817, and had passed his three-score years and ten when called from time to eternity, the date of his demise being February 15, 1888. He had accompanied his parents to Medina Township, this county, where the remainder of his youth was passed and the many years of his active life. In this township he married Miss Elizabeth Dickison, who proved a true helpmate to her good husband, working hard with him to accumulate the fine property in which she now holds her dowry rights. She was born in Switzerland County, Indiana, November 10, 1825, coming to Illinois with her parents in 1837. She was the recipient of very careful home training and a practical education, and is now numbered among the kind matrons and genial neighbors of the section in which she lives. Her beautiful home is gladly sought by her acquaintances, and many are the social hours spent by them under its roof.

Mrs. Sturm is a daughter of John and Polly (White) Dickison, natives of the Blue Grass State, of Southern parentage and mixed ancestry. Soon after their marriage they located in Switzerland County, Indiana, among the early settlers. There their seven children were born, three of whom are yet living, all on farms, and two in Medina Township. In 1837 they made the overland journey to Central Illinois, bringing such articles as were necessary to furnish their home in a new country. They located on a tract of wild prairie which they reclaimed from its primitive condition, finally acquiring a large property. A part of the land upon which Mossville is located belonged to them. Mr. Dickison died in 1852 and his wife about two years later, each having reached the age of sixty-five years. They were highly regarded among the early settlers of the township as honest, upright and hospitable citizens.

Our subject and his good wife became the parents of eight children. A son, John, died in the flower of manhood soon after reaching his majority, and Alvin when four years old. The living members of the family are: Mary, wife of Frederick Webster, a farmer in Champaign County; Wallace, a farmer in his native township, who married Anna Bland; Frank, a farmer in the same township, who married Jane Bland, and after her death Elizabeth Schilwacher; Albert, who married Nancy Buttles, of Indiana, and occupies a farm in this county, Mark, who operates and lives upon his mother's farm; Laura, wife of William Johnson, a farmer in Woodford County. Mark was first married to Miss Jenny Knupp, of Iowa, who died leaving one child, after which the widower married Sena Kruse, of Chillicothe.

Towns - Ellery

Ellery was set off from the "mother town" Chautauqua, February 29, 1821, but the first settlement was made by William Bemus in the spring of 1806, at Bemus Point; Jeremiah Griffith about two weeks after settled at Griffith's Point. His children were John, Seth, Samuel, Polly, Jeremiah and Alexander. A little later the same spring, Alanson Weed came with his family and settled in Ellery, about two miles south of Dewittville. Abijah Bennett came with him, stayed during the summer, and the next winter brought his family.

He removed to Rensselaer County, New York, in early life, thence to Madison County in 1800. He started for the Western Reserve with his wife and six children with an ox team and a "wooden shod" sled, and with a few cows and sheep driven by his boys. At Batavia he met Alanson Weed and Abijah Bennett who induced him to settle on Chautauqua lake.

William Cotton, and Griffith Dickason settled on Indian Creek sometime in 1798 or 1799, Heathcoat Picket above the mouth of Hunts Creek about 1796 or 97.

Page 23: The first of the colony had as neighbors when they came to New Switzerland, a family named Maguire who lived in a cabin near where William Halls house stands, John Rayl who lived in the bottom opposite the foot of Vevay Island, Heathcoat Pickett the grandfather of Benjamin Picket living near where the Brick house stands on the farm above the mouth of Hunts Creek now owned by Julius McMakin - Griffith Dickason and William Cotton who lived on Indian Creed near to where John Bakes resides -

Page 85: In 1812 Hiram Ogle, the father of Achillis & Hiram Ogle came to the neighborhood of Vevay and settled on Indian Creek immediately below Griffith Dickason. He contracted with John David Dufour to clear some land in the Ohio river bottom opposite the Island above Vevay. He cleared for him under that contract ten or twelve acres and a two story hewed log house was built on that land. The house stood somewhere near where the barn of Mrs. Jagers now stands. Mr. Ogle and his neighbor Dickason, became rivals in raising corn; for one, two or perhaps three years Mr. Dickason raised more corn than Mr. Ogle. Ogle then took an oath that he would not shave until he raised more corn than Dickason and he kept that oath, for the writer recollects to have been at Ogle's at a corn husking the year that Ogle raised more corn than Dickason. At that corn husking, which was during the day time, there was much fun and frolic among all present, for the girls of the neighborhood had met for a quilting and a dance was in expectancy in the evening. A few days after the husking and quilting, Ogle happening in town was asked which raised the most corn, he or Dickason, when he replied "by G---d I did, dont you see I have shaved."

Page 104: After the farmers began to raise wheat some of the horse mill owners procured bolts, and flour began to be used more than ever before. Of the horse mills of early days, the writer recollects one opposite Carrollton owned by Edward McIntire the grand father of Joseph H. Netherland, one on what is now the pauper farm, then owned by James Rous, one in Vevay on the lot on which the Russell house now stands owned by one McFall, one on the farm which Samuel Protsman owned, which was built by John Protsman the father of Samuel and William Protsman; one in the edge of Cotton Township in Sec. 7, T 2, R. 2, near to Andrew Houze's present residence - and owned by James Dugan, and the one built by Henry Hannas already mentioned. Griffith Dickason and William Cotton built water mills on Indian Creek on their respective lands which were great conveniences to the surrounding farmers. At quite an early day of the settlement at Vevay they went to mill at Hartford. To get there they put their sacks of wheat or corn in a canoe, went up the river to the mouth of Laughery Creek, thence up the creek as far as they could go with the canoe, there they hired some one to furnish horses to take their grists to the mill perhaps four or five miles, and when ground to bring it back to the Canoe. If we were compelled to go through the same process at this day to get our bread we would be sure to think and that truly that we had to "earn our bread by the sweat of the brow."

HISTORY OF DEARBORN, OHIO AND SWITZERLAND COUNTIES, INDIANA FROM

THEIR EARLIEST SETTLEMENT. Illustrated., Chicago: Weakley, Harraman & Co., Publishers. 1865:

Page 990: The First Settlers. The first settler in the county, of whom any definite account can be given, was Heathcoat Picket,* who located above Plum Creek, about three miles above Vevay, in 1795, and there built a cabin and resided for several years. There was an abundance of wild game, and their bread was made from corn ground on a hand-mill. The family consisted of the father, mother, two sons and one daughter, who endured many privations, and often narrowly escaped the tomahawks and scalping knives of the savage Indians. In 1798 the Cotton and Dickason families settled on Indian Creek, a few miles back from the Ohio River, and in 1799 Robert Gullion settled on the Ohio River bottom, above the mouth of Log Lick Creek. In 1800 Louis Jones settled on Bryant's Creek and entered land, on which he died about 1813. He was a native of Virginia, and there married Elizabeth Boccock, who died about 1823. They moved from Virginia to Kentucky, and settled at the mouth of the Kentucky River, and from there came into this county. Two of their children, Stephen Jones and Mrs. George Palmer, are living in Posey Township.

Heathcoat Picket was a man of considerable energy and for many years piloted flat-boats down the river. He was notable as a pedestrian and perhaps made more trips to New Orleans as pilot of flat-boats and returned by land through the Indian country on foot, than any other person of his or any other period. He is said to have made over twenty trips in this manner. He also built the first flat-boat, known as an "Orleans boat," ever built in the county of Switzerland. Robert Drake, who also settled in this locality about 1798, married a sister of Heathcoat Picket, lived on Plum Creek for some time, removed to Arnold's Creek, and came to Pleasant Township and purchased part of Section 16, or the school section. While living on Plum Creek in the year 1800 he had a daughter born, said to have been the first child born in the county. John Rayl located here about the same time at the foot of Vevay Island. Griffith Dickason joined the band about the same period, and one Maguire was also among the number.

*There is a tradition that Heathcoat Picket erected the first cabin in the county, and there seems to be some foundation for its truthfulness, as some authority is given for the statement that he located in the county as early as 1790.

Page 1004: After the farmers began to raise wheat, some of the horse-mill owners procured bolts, and flour began to be used more than ever before. Of the horse-mills of the early days, one was opposite Carrollton, owned by Edward McIntire, the grandfather of Joseph H. Griffith Dickason and William Cotton built water-mills on Indian Creek, on their respective lands, which were great conveniences to the surrounding farmers.

Page 1005: Other Early Settlers. In 1812, Hiram Ogle, the father of Achilles and Hiram Ogle, came to the neighborhood of Vevay, and settled on Indian Creek, immediately below Griffith Dickason. Page 1138: Chapter XII. Jefferson Township. First Settlement - Organization - Villages - Churches - General Improvements.

The early settlement of that part of Switzerland County, now known as Jefferson Township, has been fully treated of in the previous chapters of this work, relating to the first settlement of the county, and the early history of the town of Vevay.

It will be remembered, that the Cottons, the Dickasons and the few families of the early Swiss were the real pioneers of this township. Old Mr. Drake, father of Delivan Drake, a well known citizen of Vevay, is also remembered among the first of the hardy soldiers of the army of progress, who began the battle with the crude elements in this township. He had a daughter born here in 1803, who was the first white child born in the county, so at least we are informed on good authority. However, a Swiss child was born in the same year, and so was the venerable John F. Cotton, the former in the vicinity of Vevay, the latter on Indian Creek.

As stated elsewhere, Heathcoat Picket located within the present limits of the township in 1790 to 1795 and John Tague about the same time, or perhaps a year or two previous. William Cotton brought all his worldly goods on horseback, with his wife and two children, when he first came to the township. John Tague and Nicholas Lentz located back on the hills as early as 1798, and were the first to settle there. Griffith Dickason was another who early entered land in the township. He came from Kentucky. Stilwell Heady, "good old Stilwell," was another Kentuckian and Methodist of many virtues, who cast his lot with the first people of this locality. During quarterly meetings "Brother Heddy's" was the place of rendezvous for the preachers and visiting members of the church. His chickens were pronounced excellent by all those whose teeth they tickled.

Another settlement, made in 1764, was called New Stamford, and was located on Town Brook near Hobart. Its settlers were largely from Stamford, Connecticut. The settlement was based on two deeds made by Robert Livingston of Clermont, one dated November 5, 1763, and the other dated January 4, 1764, together conveying 16,110 acres in Great Lot No. 42, Hardenbergh Patent, to which the grantor gave the name, "The Lothians." The tract was surveyed and mapped by Henry Wooster in 1764. The grantees in the deed of November 5, 1763, all but four from Stamford, with the acreage conveyed to each, were as follows:

Grantee: Daniel Bennett
Acres: 358

Page 28: Daniel Bennett was a tailor, but helped to survey the lots conveyed to the Connecticut grantees, and settled in New Stamford with his son Abijah, prior to the Revolution. Both were taken by the Indians in the spring of 1780, sometime after the capture of Harper. They were taken to Canada and held until the end of the war. While a prisoner Daniel was employed in making clothing for the British troops. His descendants say he was taken by Brant, but Gould, who had the story from Isaac, Daniel's son, does not mention Brant as the captor.

Murray, David. Delaware County, New York: History of the Century, 1797-1897. W. Clark, Delhi, N.Y., 1898. Pages 547-549:

The present town of Stamford was formerly a part of Ulster county, or as it was termed "Original County;" that is it was a county organized before New York State was under its first constitution as a state. An Act to divide the Province of New York into provinces, shires and counties was passed November 1, 1683. The act provided: "That the said province be divided into twelve counties," to wit: City and County of New York, Westchester, Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Richmond, Kings, Queens, Suffolk, Dukes and Cornwall. The two latter counties were afterward surrendered to Massachusetts.

The first known settlers in the town were Dr. Stewart and John and Alexander More, who emigrated from Scotland in 1773. Two years afterwards, they were followed by James Stewart, William Fraser, Simon Fraser, Daniel and Abijah Bennett. Others who came were Elijah Baldwin, son of Caleb Baldwin, a captain in the Revolutionary army, who came to Stamford early in 1792, Philander Smith, a practicing physician, Stephen Beers, a native of Stamford, Connecticut, Heth Griffin, Burton Judson, Isaac Could, and Benjamin Gilbert.

These pioneers located in what was called the Township Valley, on Town Brook, and about five miles from its mouth. It was the intention of the early settlers to make this place the center of business. Accordingly, an act was passed by the Legislature, surveys made and a town plot, one mile square, was laid out into plots forty rods square, with eight streets running at right angles. For a new country this locality was quite thickly settled previous to the Revolution, most of the settlers coming from Stamford, Connecticut. The Indians and Tories drove them out and many of them were compelled to return to their native State. But with the close of the war they returned and again sought the beautiful valley.

The first town meeting was held at the house of Peter Knapp on Tuesday, April 2, 1793. Patrick Lane was superintendent of the meeting and Peter Osborn moderator. These officers were elected for one year: George Squires, town clerk; Samuel Ingersoll, constable; Andrew Beers, supervisor; Joshua Wright, Silas Knapp, Abijah Bennett, assessors; Daniel Bennett, Samuel Merriam, Israel Inman, commissioners of highways; Hugh Rose and James Grant, overseers of the poor; George McKenna, Ezra Hart, Peter Osborn, Allen Grant, Salmon Mallett, Jacob Smither, John Wright, district road masters; Abraham Gould, Ezra Hait, Simon Frasier, fence viewers and damage 'prisers; Peter Shearman, Zalmon Tousey, Israel Inman, pound masters. The next annual town meeting was held at the house of Philo Norton.

Daniel Bennett, came from Connecticut to Delaware County, New York, as a surveyor, and, buying a tract of land in Stamford (New York), began to clear away the forest. While thus engaged, he was surprised and captured by the famous Indian chief, Captain Brant, and his band of savages, who took him to Canada, where he remained in captivity six years. Discovering that he was a tailor by trade, the British forced him to make clothing for the army officers, keeping him thus occupied until the close of the Revolution, allowing him small wages in payment for his work. The soldiers often robbed him of his earnings; but, by covering his gold pieces and using them as buttons, and by other ingenious devices, he contrived to conceal, and thus retain, a part of his earnings. After his release he returned to Stamford to engage in farming, and built a log cabin, in which he dwelt some years. Daniel Bennett's family consisted of seven children: William; Abijah; John; Isaac; Charity; and two other daughters whose names are not recorded. All grew up, though not one of them is now living. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett both lived to a good old age, he dying while on a visit to one of his sons in Cayuga County. He was a man of industry and intelligence, liberal in his religious views, and in politics what was then known as a Whig, or Patriot.

Children of Daniel Bennett are:

- 6 i. Abijah Bennett, born Bef. 1772 in Connecticut; died Nov 07, 1846 in Rising Sun, Indiana; married Elizabeth Prow Nov 1792.
- ii. Charity Bennett⁶⁸
- iii. Daughter Bennett⁶⁹
- iv. John Bennett⁶⁹
- v. Sarah Bennett^{69,70}, married Lieutenant Joseph Hull.

Notes for Sarah Bennett:

Orcutt, Samuel and Beardsley, Ambrose. The History of the Old Town of Derby, Connecticut, 1641-1880. Springfield, Mass., 1880. Page 576:

Lieutenant Hull married Sarah, daughter of Daniel Bennett of Huntington, son of Nathan, son of Isaac of Stratford, son of James of Fairfield, who came from Concord, Mass., in 1639.

Captain Hull owned and occupied the Bennett farm, a large tract of land on the west side of the Ousatonic, in the latter part of his life.

Notes for Lieutenant Joseph Hull:

Orcutt, Samuel and Beardsley, Ambrose. The History of the Old Town of Derby, Connecticut, 1641-1880. Springfield, Mass., 1880. Page 576:

Lieutenant Hull - he is sometimes called in the family, captain because captain of a vessel, but he was a lieutenant in the Revolutionary army - is said to have been entirely engaged in the war during the Revolution. His coolness, presence of mind and energy of character as well as fearlessness, is manifested in the following anecdote: While on his way to New Haven, just as he came to the top of the hill in West Haven, he saw some British soldiers advancing towards him. It was too late to retreat, and he at once resorted to a ruse, and turning in his saddle he motioned as if for his company to hasten forward, then riding forward demanded a surrender. The men, believing the enemy close at hand in numbers and that resistance would be unavailing, delivered up their swords.

Biographical Review: Biographical Sketches of the Leading Citizens of Delaware County, New York. Biographical Review Publishing Co., Boston, 1895. Section 10:

Isaac Bennett, son of Daniel, was born in Hartford, Connecticut, March 12, 1777, and came to Stamford in childhood. He married Nany Foot, also a native of Connecticut, where she was born in 1785. He began life as a merchant, but after a time turned his attention to agriculture. He first bought forty-two acres of land and then added to it from time to time, until he became the possessor of a farm of two hundred and ten acres, besides a wood-lot of fifty. He was a hardworking, frugal man, who began life with no capital save energy and ability, and raised himself to the independent and desirable position of a well-to-do farmer solely by his own exertions. He was Supervisor for several terms, and held other minor offices. He was a man of a benevolent nature and enlightened views. Believing in the goodness of God and man, his opinions were reflected in his religious belief, which was that of the Universalist church. In politics he was, like his father, a Whig, but became a Republican on the formation of that part. He died at the old homestead, April 15, 1864; but his wife had departed this life fourteen years earlier, on February 10, 1850. Their children were: Mrs. Laura Griffin and Mrs. Charlotte Stevens, both deceased; Mrs. Volucia Grant, now a resident of Hobart; Daniel R. Bennett, a farmer, who died December 23, 1846, at the age of thirty-two, who at the time of his death was town Supervisor; John M. Bennett, who died in 1887, aged sixty-six years; and Oscar I. Bennett, the youngest of the family.

Curtiss, Frederic Haines. A Genealogy of the Curtiss Family: Being a Record of the Descendants of Widow Elizabeth Curtiss who settled in Stratford, Connecticut, 1639-40. Rockwell and Churchill Press, Boston, Massachusetts, 1903. Pages 3-5:

William Curtiss, born England 1618; married (i) Mary, married (ii) Sarah, daughter of Matthew Morris, of Hartford, Connecticut, and widow of William Goodrich, of Wethersfield, Connecticut, about 1680. He came to Stratford, Connecticut, with his mother and brother John, and his name appears among the list of property owners of 1650. He was an original proprietor, of Stratford, Connecticut, and was a most prominent man. As early as 16550 he had attained the rank of sergeant, and represented Stratford at the General Court, almost continuously from 1667 to 1668. May 8, 1672, liberty was granted by the General Court to Mr. Samuel Sherman, Lt. William Curtiss, Joseph Judson, and John Minor, themselves and their associates, to erect a plantation at Pomperaug (Woodbury). In June, 1672, he was appointed captain of the "Train Band" of Stratford, and at the same time the General Court declared that "until further order be taken, Capt. Nathan Gold shall be deemed Chief Military Officer of Fairfield County, and Capt. William Curtiss his second." In August, 1672, Capt. William Curtiss was appointed by the General Court one of six commissioners, with the Governor, Deputy Governor, and Assistants as a War Council against the Dutch at New York, "to act as the Grand Committee of the Colony in establishing and commissionating Military Officers, in pressing men, horses, ships, barques or other vessels, arms, ammunition, provisions, carriages, or whatever they judge needful for our defense, and to manage, order and dispose of the Militia of the Colony in the best way and manner they can for our defense and safety." He distinguished himself for bravery in King Philip's War. October, 1675, upon the report of the Indians being ready at Narragansett to attack Connecticut, Capt. William Curtiss was appointed to command those forces raised in Fairfield County, with power to appoint his inferior officers. In 1676 he was a commissioner of both Stratford and Woodbury. In May, 1676, he was chosen an Assistant, or member of the Governor's Council. He died in Stratford, Connecticut, December 21, 1702. His wife died 1701.

His will was entered for Probate December 31, 1702, at Fairfield, Connecticut, and reads as follows:

William Curtiss came to Stratford with his widowed mother Elizabeth, and his brother John, and was one of the first settlers of the place in 1639. His will was dated December 15, 1702; he died December 21, 1702, and his will was proved December 31, 1702. His first wife, whose name is not known, died, and he married second, about 1680, Sarah, widow of Ensign William Goodrich, of Wethersfield, and daughter of Matthew Morris, of Hartford. She died about the same time he did. The will of his mother Elizabeth was proved "4th, 4th, 1665."

Notes for Robert Rose:

Adams, Sherman W. and Stiles, Henry Reed. The History of Ancient Wethersfield, Connecticut. Grafton Press, New York, 1904. Page 589:

Rose, Robert, born in England 1594, came, with his wife Margery, and 8 children to New England from Ipswich, County Suffolk, England, in the ship Francis, in 1634. He was one of the "Adventurers" from Watertown, Massachusetts, who first settled Wethersfield; was a large land holder here, a soldier in the memorable Pequot campaign; constable in 1639-40; juror in 1641; representative to General Court 1641-2-3; had many offices conferred upon him by the Town and Court; and in 1644 removed to Totoket (Branford), where shortly after June 7, 1664, he married (2) Elizabeth of New Haven, widow of Edward Parker, and who had previously been the widow of John Potter. This marriage was probably at Branford, as, on the above mentioned day, as we learn from the New Haven (Proprietors' Rec. III, p. 40), the widow Parker was about to leave New Haven "to change her condition." She died at New Haven 28 July, 1677. Mr. Rose died shortly after his marriage, in 1664, his will being dated 25 August of that year proven at Branford, 4 April, 1665 and probated at New Haven, 14 November 1666. It devised to widow and 8 children - of whom only John, Elizabeth and Mary are named - and gave 6 pounds, 13 shillings to the Branford church. Inventory of estate amounted to 826 pounds, 9 shillings, 7 pence (Branford Town Record and New Haven County Probate 1, Part 2, p. 7).

Children: the ages affixed to the first eight are those found in the register of the Crown Officers, who licensed the departure of all emigrants to America from England. (See Drake's Families of New England and Orcutt's History of Stratford, Connecticut.)

Curtiss, Frederic Haines. A Genealogy of the Curtiss Family: Being a Record of the Descendants of Widow Elizabeth Curtiss who settled in Stratford, Connecticut, 1639-40. Rockwell and Churchill Press, Boston, Massachusetts, 1903. Pages vii-ix, xi-xii and xxvi-xxvii:

The Probable English Ancestry of the Curtiss Family of Stratford, Connecticut.

There came to New England in the ship "Lyon," which sailed from London, June 22, 1632, William Curtiss and Thomas Ufford, both natives of Nazing, Essex County, England. Landing at Boston, New England, on Sunday, September 16, 1632, they proceeded to Roxbury, where John Eliot, the "Apostle to the Indians," who was the brother-in-law of William Curtiss, had settled the previous year. In the ship "Lyon," so Mr. Winthrop tells us, there came one hundred and twenty-three passengers, of whom fifty were children. These persons were all of the better class, were well educated and possessed a certain degree of wealth that enabled them to live in the enjoyment of comforts.

On the records of Nazing, England ("The Curtiss Family," by Stiles H. Curtiss, A.M. N.E. Genealogical and Historical Register, July, 1889), we find that William Curtiss was baptized November 12, 1592, and married Sarah, daughter of Bennett Eliot, of Nazing, August 6, 1618. The baptisms of his several children also appear on these records. William Curtiss died in Roxbury, New England, December 8, 1672, aged 81 years, and Sarah his widow, March 20, 1673, aged 73 years. Most of the historians have supposed this William Curtiss to have been the husband of widow Elizabeth Curtiss, of Stratford, Connecticut, but my researches have led me to believe he was brother of her husband, who was John Curtiss. The Nazing records also show the following entries:

John Curtis, baptized September 15, 1577.

John Curtyce married Elizabeth Hutchins, April 19, 1610; and the following baptisms, supposedly those of their children:

John Curtis, February 26, 1614-15; William Curtis, June 21, 1618; and Thomas Curtis, March 12, 1619-20.

John Curtis, aged 21, sailed with Thomas Heath, aged 23, in the ship "Safety," August 10, 1635. This may have been the above son, as the name of Heath is found both in Nazing and Roxbury.

John Curtis of London, England, had his coat of arms confirmed May 9, 1632, just forty-two days before William of Roxbury sailed for New England. In the visitation of London, in 1633, his name does not appear. In "A Note of ye Estates and Persons of the Inhabitants of Roxsbury," 1638-40, appears the name of John Corteis, having fifteen acres of land and with five persons in his family. No further mention of this family appears on the Roxbury records, but in 1639 a John Curtis was a resident of Wethersfield, Connecticut, and owned land in that town on what was then called "The North Road to the Great Meadow." Thomas Ufford, who left Roxbury in 1635, with William Pynchon, we also find in Wethersfield at this time. Reverend Thomas Hooker, the famous divine of Hartford, was a native of Morfield, Leicestershire, England. He was a Fellow of Emmanuel College about the same time as John Eliot, and Eliot assisted him in his school at Little Baddow, Essex. Through persecution Hooker left England and sought refuge in Holland. After a while he heard that some of his Essex friends were going to New England, and he speedily united with them and sailed in the "Griffin" from Downs in 1633. It is therefore probable that when he settled in Hartford many of the Roxbury people, natives of Essex, joined him there.

John Curtis left Wethersfield in 1640 for Cuphag (Stratford), and his name disappears, but we find the name of widow Elizabeth Curtiss and her two sons on the earliest records of Stratford. It is therefore probable that the father died soon after arriving at Stratford, or on the journey. Thomas Ufford left Wethersfield at about the same time and went to Milford, but a few years later we find him in Stratford where he, with his family, spent the remainder of his life. There has been a tradition in Stratford that the Ufford and Booth families had intermarried with the Curtiss before they left England, but this I have been unable to substantiate. Mr. Trumbull in his "History of Connecticut," in writing of the settlement of Stratford, says that "Mr. John and Mr. William Curtiss and Mr. Joseph Hawley were from Roxbury, and Mr. William Judson, and Mr. William Wilcoxson from Concord, in Massachusetts." "These were the first principal gentlemen in the town and church of Stratford." "A few years after the settlement commenced, Mr. John Birdseye removed from Milford and became a man of eminence both in the town and church." "Mr. Adam Blackman who had been episcopally ordained in England, and a preacher of some note, first at Leicester and afterwards in Derbyshire, was their minister and one of the first planters. It is said that he was followed by a number of the faithful into this country." "These doubtless collected about him in the infant settlement." Mr. Blakeman is supposed to have come to Stratford from Wethersfield, and as the house lot of widow Elizabeth Curtiss was near or adjoining that of Mr. Blakeman's, this family may have come to Stratford to be under his ministry. In the will of Elizabeth Curtiss, John Birdseye, Henry Wakelyn, and Joseph Hawley were appointed overseers. Of these Joseph Hawley came from Roxbury, New England, and also came to this country in the ship "Planter," in 1635, with Adam Blakeman, William Wilcoxson, and William Beardsley. William Curtiss's family furnishes us with further proof of his having come from Wethersfield, Connecticut and Nazing. He married for his second wife Sarah, daughter of Matthew Morris, of Hartford, Connecticut, and widow of William Goodrich, of Wethersfield, Connecticut, and two of his daughters married into Wethersfield families - those of Rose and Welles. The latter perhaps was John Welles, son of Governor Thomas Wells, as on the records John Welles calls John Curtiss uncle.

The Curtiss family was from all accounts one of the most prominent among the first settlers of Stratford, and it has been claimed that they suggested naming the town Stratford-on-Avon, England. If this be true it adds another proof towards the acceptance of the pedigree with the coat-of-arms, for Makestoke and Hatton were but small hamlets and Stratford-on-Avon was the nearest town of any size. That the name of Curtiss was well known in Shakespeare's own town is shown by the fact that that poet used it as one of the characters in "The Taming of the Shrew." William Beardsley, Thomas Alsop, and Richard Booth are also supposed to have been natives of Stratford-on-Avon, England, and as the Earl of Warwick had letters patent to that part of Connecticut, it is more than probable that many of the early settlers throughout that colony were from Warwickshire.

The Curtiss Coat of Arms.

The coat-of-arms on the title page of this book is claimed to be the one borne by the ancestor of the Stratford, Connecticut branch of the Curtiss family. An ancient emblazonment on parchment has been in the possession of this branch of this family beyond any doubt for over one hundred and fifty years and is owned today by an elderly lady residing in Bridgeport, Connecticut. It is claimed this emblazonment was brought over to his country by the first ancestor, but this I have been unable to substantiate. On the reverse side of this parchment certain data relating to the Stratford and Roxbury members of the family have been written, supposedly in the handwriting of Joseph Curtiss, Town Clerk of Stratford, Connecticut, 1678-1728.

The records of the College of Heraldry, in London, England, show that this coat-of-arms was confirmed to "John Curtis, of London, Gentleman, son of William Curtis, of Hatton in the County of Warwick, Gentleman, son of Eustace Curtiss, of Malestock, in the said County, Gentleman, son of William who was son and heir of John Curtis, of Malestock aforesaid, Gentleman, by Sir Richard St. George Clarencieux, the 9th of May, 1632," in the 8th year of the reign of King Charles I, and that this crest was granted at the same time. In the visitation of London, in 1633, the name of John Curtis does not appear, so it is probable that he left for New England soon after having these arms confirmed.

The curious description of these arms on the records is as follows: "Azure a fesse dancette between three ducal crowns or," "Crest: A Lyon in his ppr. collers Issuing forth of his Collers Or and Azure supporting in his right pawe a Shield Azure & thereon a fess dancette Or Mantled gules doubled argent."

A List of Those Families Bearing the Curtis, Curtiss, Curtice Names that Settled in New England Prior to 1700.

John Corteis owned fifteen acres of land in Roxbury, Massachusetts in 1638-40, and had five persons in his family. No further record is found of him on the records of that town. He is supposed to have been the husband of Elizabeth Curtiss, of Stratford, Connecticut, and the father of John and William.

John Curtis owned land in Wethersfield, Connecticut in 1639-40, but disappears, leaving no trace. In the "Memorial History" of Hartford County it says that he left in 1639-40 for Cupheag (Stratford), Connecticut. He is supposed to be the same person as the above.

Lines, Donald Jacobus. The Ancestry of Lorenzo Ackley and His Wife Emma Arabella Bosworth. N.G. Parke, Publisher, Woodstock, Vermont 1960. Pages 204-205:

John Curtis.

John Curtis, baptized at Nazing, county Essex, England, 15 September 1577, died possibly at Wethersfield, Connecticut about 1640; married at Nazing, 19 April 1610, Elizabeth Hutchins, who died at Stratford, Connecticut, June 1658.

He is last of record in England in 1637, when he appears as taxed in the Ship Money list and also sat as a juror in the manorial court of Nazing. Apparently his eldest son John was sent to New England in advance, for a John Curtis, aged 21, embarked in the Safety, 10 August 1635, which corresponds with the age of the younger John. By 1639 the rest of the family followed and settled in Roxbury, Massachusetts, where John's nephew William was already living. In the earliest lists of estates drawn up at Roxbury, evidently in 1639, John Curtis is listed with a family of five persons, who would be himself, his wife, and their three sons.

Sherman W. Adams supposes that a John Curtis who owned a home lot in Wethersfield, Connecticut, before 1640 was the younger John of this family, but gives a great deal of misinformation concerning him. Mr. Hoppin thinks it was the older John and that he died in Wethersfield. Certainly John died early in or shortly after 1640. His widow Elizabeth and the three sons were settled in Stratford, Connecticut, soon after. Two of the three sons had children recorded there in 1642.

The will of Elizabeth Curtiss, proved 4 June 1658, remembered four grandchildren (the eldest two of her son John and the eldest two of her son William), and her grandchild Mary Curtiss, daughter of Thomas Curtiss, the residue to go to her sons John and William.

John Curtiss, born in England in 1611. His name appears among the original patentees of Stratford, Connecticut, and also on the list of property owners of 1650. He married Elizabeth Welles (supposed to have been the sister of Governor Thomas Welles). He was made a freeman in May, 1658. He was a prominent citizen, and took an active part in the work of settling the town, but was not as much of a public man as his brother William. In 1678 he and his brother William were on a committee to build a new meeting-house. Sergeant John Curtiss was elected Town Treasurer, December 29, 1675. He served as a soldier in King Philip's War, and attained the rank of Ensign (second lieutenant). He died in Stratford, Connecticut, December 6, 1707, aged 96 years. She died in Stratford, Connecticut, March 9, 1682.

Thomas Curtis, baptized at Nazing, county Essex, England, 12 March 1629/30, died at Stratford, Commencticut in 1648; married Mary, who married second, Deputy Governor James Bishop of New Haven.

Nothing was known of Thomas or his wife until the discovery of his inventory, dated 1 December 1648, in the Fairfield Probate Files, said to be the oldest document extant in that source. At the bottom of it, under date of 8 June 1652, "Mary Bishopp wife of James Bishopp maketh oath that this is a trew Inventory of Thomas Curtis her former husband deceased." The only known child, Mary, was remembered in the will of her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Curtis.

His wife died in 1647 (Windsor Church records); he died at Windsor, 21 April 1648. His will, dated 20 April 1648, mentioned his "sonne Joseph Judgson."

Porter, Arthur Amasa. John Porter and His Descendants. Portage, Wisconsin 1917. Pages 1-2:

John Porter.

Among the early settlers of New England in the great tide of emigration from England subsequent to the granting of the charter for the colony of Massachusetts Bay, in 1628, came John Porter.

The records in England give his descent, in the sixteenth generation from William de la Grande, a Norman Knight who came in the army of the Norman Duke, at the conquest A.D. 1066, and that he acquired lands at or near Kenilworth in Warwickshire.

His son Ralph (or Roger) became "Grand Porteur" to Henry First A.D. 1120 to 1140 from which he derived the name Porter.

The Windsor church was formed in Plymouth England in March 1630 by people from Devon, Dorset, Somerset, and Warwickshires. The Reverends John Maverick and John Warham being ordained respectively as pastor and teacher.

In 1630 they came to New England, settling at Dorchester, Massachusetts, on the first settlement of that town. In the summer of 1635 the arrivals having become numerous and the settlement "somewhat crowded and hearing ye fame of ye Quinnitukut river" a company was formed to make a settlement there, and on the fifteenth day of October they took their departure, carrying with them their church organization under the Reverend John Warham, the Reverend Mr. Maverick remaining at Dorchester.

Trumbull says, "The journey from Massachusetts was made in about fourteen days' time. The distance being more than one hundred miles and through a trackless wilderness. They had no guide but their compass and made their way over mountains through swamps, thickets, and rivers, which were not passable but with the greatest difficulty. They had no cover but the heavens nor any lodgings but those which simple nature afforded them. They drove with them one hundred and sixty head of cattle and subsisted on the way, in a great measure on the milk of their kine."

"This adventure was the more remarkable as many of the company were persons of figure, who had lived in England in honor, affluence, and delicacy, and were entire strangers to fatigue and danger."

This company reached the Connecticut river at a place called by the natives Matteneang but to which the settlers gave the name of Windsor, many of their numbers being natives of the place of that name in England.

In 1639 the Reverend Ephram Hewett of Wraxhall in Kenilworth, England, was called to assist Mr. Warham and it is probable that John Porter accompanied him, as at about that date his name first appears upon the public records.

John Porter's residence in Windsor appears to have been located near the "Little River" at its junction with the Connecticut and between the residences of George Phelps and Joseph Loomis, and nearly opposite those of Henry Wolcott and Matthew Allyn.

He was for that period a man of considerable substance as appears by his will printed in the public records of Connecticut.

He died in Windsor April 22, 1648, his wife Rose having died in July 1647.

Boardman, William F.J. The Ancestry of William Francis Joseph Boardman, Hartford, Connecticut. Hartford, Connecticut, 1906. Pages 306-307:

John Porter of Windsor, Connecticut, is the emigrant ancestor of this line. It is said that "he came to New England with his wife and nine children from Felsted, County Essex, England, probably in the ship 'Susan and Ellen,' 17 July 1638," and in company with his brother-in-law Joseph Loomis. He appears at Windsor in 1639, being present at the General Court August 8th as a member of the town committee. In 1640 he is a juror and in 1646 and 1647 Deputy to the General Court. He was a man of some property, as well as ability and character. His home lot was on the "Island" extending east and west of the road, and included part of the "Plymouth Meadow." His house was east of the road.

John Porter died the 21st and was buried the 22nd of April, 1648. In his will dated April 30, 1648, he names sons John, James, Samuel and Nathaniel, daughters Rebecca, Rose, Mary and Anna (Hannah) and a son-in-law Joseph Judgson. Two older daughters, Anna and Sarah, had received their portions at their marriage, and the portion of Rose, who died the following month, was subsequently divided among them. His inventory amounted to 470 pounds 17 shillings (Manwaring's Hartford Probate Records, I: 29, 30; Connecticut Colonial Records, I: 475-477).

John Porter married in Messing, Essex County, England, his marriage being there recorded as follows: "1620, October 18. John Porter of Felsted and Anna White of Messing." She was the mother of his older children at least and probably his only wife, whose death is recorded in 1647 as "John Porter, Sen'rs wife." Anna White was the daughter of Robert White of Messing, a village about ten miles from Bocking in Essex. Her baptism is recorded in the Messing Parish Register, July 13, 1600. The mother of Anna White was Bridget Allgar, daughter of William Allgar of Shalford, Essex County, England. Robert White died in 1617 and it has been said that "he cannot have been an old man at the time of his death, for he had at least five children unmarried, and apparently only one of them over twenty-one." His daughter Elizabeth married William Goodwin, and his daughter Mary married Joseph Loomis, both of them coming to New England, and well-known in its history. Anna is mentioned in her father's will in the following clause: "I give and bequeath unto my daughter Anna White the summe of one hundredth markes of like lawfull mony: to be paid unto hir upon ye day of hir marriage; yf soe be she shall bestow hir selfe in marriage, accordinge to the likings and consent of my two fornamed sonnes in law, and my wife, as is aforesaid. But yf soe fall out, as that she my said daughter Anna shall marrye without the consent and approbation formerly mentioned, then I give and bequeath hir only the summe of thirtey pounds of like lawfull monie." There is no doubt that the necessary approval was given and that three years later the bequest constituted her marriage portion. (Will - Goodwin Genealogy, pp. 68-71.)

Philip Groves was among the first settlers at Stratford and was early appointed the Ruling Elder, and the only one, of the Congregational Church of Stratford. He seems to have married Ann, the daughter of Reverend Henry Smith of Wethersfield, for John Blakeman, Jr., who married another daughter calls Philip Groves "brother." Mr. Groves was prominent in the town. He was, in 1642, the first Deputy of this town, and in 1647 a juryman at Hartford, but living at Stratford; in 1653 he was appointed with William Beardsley by the General Court to settle a question of boundaries between Fairfield and Norwalk/ and the same year was directed as "Goodman Groves with Goodman Thornton," both of Stratford, to assist the Constables in making the draft of soldiers and provisions for the supposed impending war against the Dutch at New York; in 1654 he was appointed by the Court, with others, an Assistant to the Magistrates, which might be sent to execute justice in the town, and reappointed in 1655 and '56, thus showing that at this date this town had no regularly elected Magistrate. In 1655 he was elected Deputy; in 1656 he was again appointed Assistant; in October, 1656, he, with Robert Rice, was appointed leather sealer for Stratford, perhaps the first in that office; and in May, 1660, he was appointed one of the grand jury for the Colony. He died in 1675, having been a useful, prominent man in the church, town and state.

Notes for Griffith Dickinson:

DICKENSONS OF SOUTHWEST VIRGINIA, Manuscript by the late Mary Jane Knisely. (WWW Document. <http://familytreemaker.genealogy.com/users/d/i/c/Donald-R.-Dickenson/FILE0057page.html>)

Griffith Dickenson is a name so common in the 1700's and even up to the present date, that sorting them is no mean task. However, in the 1600's there is only one Griffith Dickenson. Griffith is an uncommon first name; let us examine the records of Griffith Dickenson of the 1600's, and try to locate an earlier link than 1717.

Let us see what we can find on the Griffith Dickenson in Virginia in the 1600's. He did indeed patent land in Virginia on 5 January, 1656, 300 acres on the southwest side of Moses Creek and on the northerly branch of Tomahack Creek above Nickatorinces quarter, for transporting 6 persons, himself twice, Elizabeth Dickenson, William Jones and Susan Crotch. This, of course, is a count of 5, not 6. The author checked this patent with the originals in the Virginia State Library, and it is correct as given above. Therefore, it would seem that his wife Elizabeth is also counted twice. (40) Such grants were given in the amount of 50 acres for each person transported. However, one must not assume that the date of the patent represents the date of arrival. The patent might be based on those who had long since arrived and settled.

This entry does tell us that Griffith had made at least two trips from England before 1656, and the inference is that his wife also made two trips. That she was his wife can also be shown by the records of St. Martin Orgar, London, where the marriage record shows that Griffith Dickenson married Elizabeth Springall on 12 June 1649. (41) No ages or parents are given in this document. The rate lists show that Thomas Springall was a resident there in this period, but no proof of parentage has been found. (42) We can deduce that Griffith and Elizabeth came to Virginia any time between 1649 and 1656, for the first time.

Griffith was apparently not a planter, and seemingly patented the land because he could get it. He was a trader, dealer, speculator or some kind of businessman.

In existing records of Surry County, we find the entry "26 June 1656/7 The balance of the books of Maj. Jno. Westhorpe, dec'd." One of the creditors was Griffith Dickenson. (43) On 16 December, 1664 there is the petition of Griffith Dickinson, entreating his friend Capt. Thomas Pittman to petition the court on his behalf and grant an order against John Dolyes (?) Estate. (44) Also on 3 May 1656, Jno. Baldwin and Griffith Dickson have a suit, which they ask Robert Stanton to defer to the next court. (45)

Then we find Griffith pursuing a proposition frowned upon by the authorities. On 10 September, 1663, an order of the Assembly: Divers persons (5) have erected wares in the Face of the town, contrary to the order of the Assembly. Each was assessed a fine of 2,000 pounds of tobacco and cask. One of these culprits was Griffith Dickenson. (46)

Commentators like McIlwain, familiar with the terminology then current, states that wares refers to weirs, which was the term used for a dam. These five men seem to have built a dam in the James River, at or near Jamestown, which in some way upset the order of things. They obviously did not believe their project would have deleterious effects, but the event proved them wrong.

His business deals must have been profitable. The Assembly apparently knew these men could pay a stiff fine. They probably also had to stand the expense of tearing down the dam.

We do not know the date of Griffith's death, but we know it was before 1673. We find this entry: 28 May 1673. The difference between Tho. Wilkinson as marrying the relict of Griffith Dickeson, and William Towne, is referred to the next county court of New Kent, who are to determine the difference. (47)

Who is William Towne, and what does he have to do with the widow's property? Did William Towne marry a daughter of Griffith and Elizabeth, and is trying to get some of Griffith's estate out of the hands of her step-father, Thomas Wilkinson? Did any sons come into this litigation? We do not know, because the records of New Kent County have been destroyed.

The last record we had on Griffith was 16 December 1664, in Surry County. He may have died in the late 1660's. Since we know the marriage took place in 1649, we now see why Thomas, Griffith and Nathaniel are not likely to be the sons of Griffith, but presumably grandsons. And this would tie in with the presumption that William of King William County is their father. If William was born in the early 1650's and died in 1707, he would have lived a reasonable life span. But to presume that Nathaniel, who died in 1753, is a child of Griffith of Virginia, would be, though not impossible, yet improbable.

Having located the family in New Kent County, where Griffith's estate is to be adjudicated, we look for other entries that might be significant. On the April 16, 1684 charges and levies of New Kent County, John Diggason is awarded 21 pounds of tobacco for carrying a letter to Lt. Story. On Thursday 28 October 1686, in a letter submitted by the clerks to their Lordship, one of the members of the Custom Commission is William Dickinson. (48) The names John and William are too common to assign without proof. But we can bear in mind, since we have still another entry that may or may not be significant. In the next century we find the will of

William Morris of New Kent County, filed on 25 January 1745/6, naming among his heirs, his daughter Eliza Dickenson and his grandsons John and Arthur Dickenson. (49)

We do not know Griffith's origin. In the parish of St. Martin Orgar where he was married in London, no Dickenson families can be found in the records for that period. Considerable work has been done on English records, without finding a clue.

That he was the son of Jeremiah Dickenson, who came over in 1620, can now be disproved. Jeremiah patented land in James Cittie County in 1636 and 1638. (50) There are two entries in the records concerning these lands.

"10 April, 1651, to Robert Taylor, 500 acres in James Cittie County on the Chippoakes, beginning at Swan Bay and north toward the river mouth, formerly granted to Jeremy Dickenson by patent dated 6 May, 1638, and granted to said Taylor by order of the Governor and Council 24 October, 1650, in the right of his wife, the daughter-in-law of said Dickenson." (51)

In other words, there is no male claimant to Jeremiah's land. Nomenclature of the day was not consistent with ours, so that we do not know whether Robert Taylor's wife was a daughter of Jeremiah, or possibly his widow. But the claimant is not a male bearing the name of Dickenson. The other entry is:

"Surry County, Virginia 22 June 1668. Thomas Ludwell, Esq., Escheater General, Writ 5 October 1667 to enquire what lands Jeremiah Dickeson was at the tyme of his death seized of. Jury find that Jeremiah Dickinson was at the time of his death seized of 500 acres in James Citty County (but now called Surry) upon Upper Chipoakes Creeke, commonly known by the name of Swan Bay, which became due unto Jeremiah Dickinson by patt. 6 May 1638 and that Jeremiah Dickenson made noe will, neither is there any heire in the country. We give verdict that the 500 acres is escheated." (52)

Our records show that Griffith's widow, if not Griffith himself, was in the colony in 1667 and 1668. Obviously the old records which claim the Dickensons descend from Jeremiah are in error.

The search continues for some document showing the origin of Griffith.

Dickensons have ever been a prolific as well as adventurous, as is evident to anyone who has made much of a study of English records pertaining to them. In the 1600's they were by no means all living in England, as can be seen by examining the records of Bermuda, West Indies, and New England. A Thomas Dickenson was in Charleston, South Carolina as early as the 1600's. It is no easy problem to locate Griffith's origins.

February 26, 1673 - Surry County, Virginia. Thomas Wilkinson asks Mr. Arthur Jordan to appear for him to prosecute action against Thos. Pittman. "The debt was made by my predecessor Griffin Dickinson." Also confess judgement in my behalf to Wm. Wabard.

May 28, 1673 - New Kent County, Virginia (formed from York County in 1654). Minutes of the Council and General Court of New Kent refer to "the difference between Thomas Wilkinson as marrying the relict of Griffith Dickeson and Wm. Towne is referred to the next county court of New Kent, who are to determine the difference." [This indicates that Griffith Dickenson died prior to 1673 and his widow, Elizabeth Springall, had married Thomas Wilkinson.]

November 20, 1683 - James City County, Virginia. Thomas Wilkerson granted 554 acs. whereon he now dwells on south side of Moses Creek from head of the western most branch of Ware Gutt to Halie's cor., along Phillips like to Hawkes Nest Gutt and, . . . being a part of a devident formerly held by Griffin Dickinson.

The Robert White Family.

Robert White, born 1561, married June 24, 1585 Bridget Allgar, buried June 17, 1617, age 56.

Brydgett Allgar, baptized March 11, 1562.

1561. Vol. 55, p 22 N E H & G: Robert White was born probably at Messing, Essex County, England, at about this time. The fact that in his will he leaves 40 shillings to the poor of Messing while nothing to the poor of Shalford where he lived most of his life suggests Messing as the place of his early youth. The "Elder John White Memorial" and the "Loomis Genealogy" treat further of this family. The will (above) for instance, appears on p. 103 of the latter.

1562, March 11. Vol. 55, p 28 N E H & G: This baptismal date of Brydgett Allgar is clearly listed with those of two sisters and two brothers in the Parish Register at Shalford, England.

1575, August 2. P 29 Do: When she was thirteen years old her father William Allgar the elder was buried at Shalford.

1585, June 24. P 28 Do: This is the second wedding day, this time at least, at Shalford, Essex County, England, the names reading in the register there "Robert Whighte and Brydgette Allgar." Shalford is two miles south of Wethersfield. Since son Daniel is named, in Robert White's will, executor it is fair to assume him to be the oldest son. If so, he must have been the child of a former marriage. It is probable that Robert White first set up housekeeping at Messing where probably the first child Daniel was born and the first wife died; but soon, before or after the second marriage, the residence was at Shalford, where the rest of the children were born and baptized. Even as late as November 7, 1616, when daughter Elizabeth and William Goodwin were married at Shalford, the parents were presumably living there. Very shortly after, however, before May 1617, in fact, when Robert's will was made, they were again in Messing. Robert White, Yeoman, was a rich man for those times, as the will shows.

He had vision, too. His bequest of 40 shillings "to Mr. Richard Rogers, preacher of God's word at Weathersfield in Essex" renders it probable that he was friendly to non-conformists and that he had often listened to his awakening preacher; while a like bequest to Bartholomew Scrivener, minister of the Church of God in Messing, implies his continued interest in the established church. See Matthews' American Armory and Blue Book for White family Coat of Arms. Robert and Bridget were married in the heroic age of England. Bold navigators were pushing out for new worlds to conquer. John Davis, English Navigator, was one of these and, in this very year of marriage (1585), was making one of three attempts to find a Northwest passage through the Arctic to the Orient. Sailing to the 73rd degree of latitude he discovered the strait which bears his name.

1617, May 27. Her husband, Robert White, makes will remembering his wife in these words: 'Item all the rest of my goos unbequeathed I give and bequeath unto my wife Bridgett White, and to my sonne Daniel White whome I constitute and ordayne the joynte executors of this my last will and testament, hopinge they will faithfullye execute this my last will accordinge to the trust reposed in them.'" According to his she had the use of the dwelling and any real property left during life.

1623, June 9. P 27 Do; from Vol. 1623-4, p 158 Commissory Court of London for Essex & Herts: The will of Nathaniel White of Fering, proved 31 July, 1623, mentions his mother Bridget White and gives her an annuity of ten pounds. Fering is four or five miles from Messing.

414. Reverend Henry Smith^{452,453}, born 1588 in Norwich, England; died 1648 in Wethersfield, Connecticut.

Notes for Reverend Henry Smith:

Adams, Sherman W. and Stiles, Henry Reed. The History of Ancient Wethersfield, Connecticut. Grafton Press, New York 1904. Volume I, pages 150-156:

First Settled Pastor at Wethersfield.

In 1641, after Pruden, Sherman and Denton had, one after another, ministered to the people, and had each passed away to more quiet fields of labor, Wethersfield, for the first time, became possessed of a settled minister in the person of the Rev. Henry Smith, who is described as "a gentleman of good family," and who, "as the patriarch of one of the best sustained and accomplished families in New England, is entitled to our regard as a gentleman of uncommon culture, refinement and firmness." With his wife and several small children, he is supposed to have come hither in 1639, if not earlier - probably from Charlestown, Massachusetts, where he had arrived in 1637 (he and his wife were admitted to the communion of the Watertown, Mass. church December 5, 1637), from England. Whatever may have been his character and qualities, however, his life at Wethersfield was by no means a happy one, for there were still left some restless spirits among his church and congregation, and "from the very beginning of his ministry he was the victim of suspicions most unfounded and accusations the most bitter." (Chief among his calumniators was Mr. Clement Chaplin, who seems to have come to Wethersfield from Hartford, in 1636, where he had been the "ruling Elder" of the Church since 1639, according to all indications. ("The 'Ruling Elder' represented that part of the executive power that did not fall specifically within the province of the pastor. He was a kind of vice-executive officer. His business was to keep strict watch over all the brethren and sisters, and see that they demeaned themselves in an orderly and Godly manner. It was his duty to warn the careless, admonish the wayward, and to present the incorrigible before the proper tribunal for discipline. He was also to go from house to house, like a ministering angel, and visit the sick and afflicted, and pray with them. In the absence of the pastor and teacher he was also to pray with the congregation on the Sabbath, and other stated days of worship, and expound the Scriptures to them." Hollister's History of Connecticut, I, 449.) He was quite a large land holder, and both he and Mr. Smith had lands allotted to them, on both sides of the River, in the general distribution of 1639. (Rev. Smith's earliest recorded date at Wethersfield is in 1639-40, when he shared in the division of lands on the east side of the Connecticut River. The following court record of March 5, 1639, may refer to these lands; or more probably to some land dispute between him and Ruling Elder Chaplin: "Whereas a difference hath arisen between Mr. Smith and some others of Wethersfield about the measure of some ground being long debated it was thought fitt that it be referred to some indifferent men to view, and Mr. Wells and Mr. Webster are intreated by the Court, in the first and fittest season to goe downe to Wethersfield and to settle the same as in equity and justice they shall see fitt, that peace and truth may be continued. But it was judged very equall and reasonable, in regard Mr. Smith in setting up his posts proceeded in a legall and just way, that he be not put to the charge of taking up and setting downe his posts againe.")

Mr. Smith's house was on the corner bounded west by High Street and east by the Meeting-house square. Mr. Chaplin's was where the houses known as the Col. Webb and the Silas Deane houses now are; he owning the land now covered by both of them. Chaplin seems to have been something of a disturbing element, in the Church and Town; for he quarreled with Matthew Mitchell, the Town Recorder in 1640; and, through the General Court, compelled that worthy gentleman to apologize publicly to him. Chaplin was, at this time, Colonial Treasurer, an office to which he had been appointed in February, 1637-8. In November 1643, it was his turn to be treated as an offender, for the General Court fined him 10 pounds "for divulging and setting his hand to a writing cauled a declaration, tending to the defamation of Mr. Smith," the minister. In 1643, so much difference existed between Mr. Smith and some members of his Church, that the General Court appointed a committee to take the matter "into serious and sadde consideration." Their report, submitted April 13th of that year, finds the difference to be "exceeding great;" and, whilst it exonerates Mr. Smith, apparently, it recommends that he, in the interest of "publique peace" "lay downe his place, if it be done according to God." It also says, "We find, also, that many of those who put up their names for removal were not induced thereunto by any dislike or engagement they have in the present quarrels, but for want of lotts and other considerations." In November 1643, the General Court itself cleared Mr. Smith from the unjust "accusations" against him "both in Church administration & in acting the civell occasions of the Towne;" and it proceeded to impose the following penalties upon the signers of the "declaration" above mentions, and other acts in connection therewith - Clement Chaplin, 10 pounds; Francis Norton, 5 pounds; John Goodrich, 40 shillings; Mr. John Plumb, "for preparing a roll of grievances against Mr. Smith and failing of proof in the prosecution thereof," 10 pounds; Robert Rose, 40 shillings; and it made it an offense punishable by a fine of 10 pounds upon any person who should thereafter "renewe any of the former complaints."

(The unveracious Rev. Samuel Peters, in his burlesque, General History of Connecticut, 1781, a work saturated with High Church prejudice against Puritans and dissenters, says that "Wethersfield was settled in 1637, by the Rev. Mr. Smith and his followers, who left Watertown, near Boston, in order to get out of the power of (Rev.) Mr. Cotton, whose severity in New England exceeded that of the bishops in Old England. But Mr. Smith did not discard the spirit of persecution, as the sole property of Mr. Cotton; but carried with him a sufficient quantity of it to distress and divide his little flock."

It is not known what was the gravamen of the accusations against Mr. Smith; but there are indications that the title to certain real estate in the Great Meadow had an important place in the controversy; and, so far as Mr. Smith's interest therein was concerned, it was not fully settled until many years after his death, which occurred in 1648.

In the diary of Juliana Smith, 1779-81 (quoted in Miss Helen Evertson Smith's Colonial Days and Ways, published 1900), there exists a copy of a fragment of a reminiscent letter, written in 1699, by the Rev. Henry Smith's son, Samuel Smith, of Hadley, Massachusetts, to his his son, Ichabod Smith, Residing in Suffield, Connecticut, apparently in reply to some inquiries which the latter had made. Juliana writes, "Today my Grandmother Smith gave me to read what is left unburnt of a Letter which was written to my Great-Grandfather by his Father and has permitted me to copy it. The Letter itself belongs to my Uncle Dan, because he is my Grandfather's eldest son. A large part of it was burnt when my Grandfather's house in Suffield took fire, and was barely saved from destruction, with the loss of many things, especially Books & Papers. The Bible in which this Letter was kept was found on the next day still smouldering, with more than half of its leaves burnt away, including a part of the Family Record and this Letter:

"Hadley, Massachusetts Colony,
January ye Firste, 1698/99

My Dear & Dutiful Son: I was of so tender an Age at the Death of my beloved Father, that I am possessed of but little of the Information for which you seek. My Revered Father was an ordained Minister of ye Gospelle, educate at Cambridge in England, & came to this Land by reason of ye Great Persecution by which ye infamous Archbishop Laud and ye Black Tom Tyrante (as Mr. Russell was always wont to call ye Earl of Strafforde) did cause ye reign of his Majestie, Charles ye First, to loose favor in ye sight of ye people of England. My Father & Mother came over in 1636/37, firste to Watertown which is neare Boston, & after a yeare or two to Weathersfield on ye great River, where he became ye firste settled Pastor. Concerning of ye earlie days I can remember but little save Hardship. My Parents had broughte both Men Servants & Maid Servants from England, but ye Maids tarried not but till they got Married, ye which was shortly, for there was great scarcity of Women in ye Colonies. Ye men did abide better. Onne of em had married onne of my Mother's Maids & they did come with us to Weathersfield, to our grate Comferte for some years, untill they had many littel onnes of their Owne. I do well remember ye Face & Figure of my Honoured Father. He was 5 foote, 10 inches tall & spare of builde, tho not leane. He was an Active as ye Red Skin Men & sinewy. His delighte was in sportes of strengthe, & withe his owne Hands he did helpe to reare both our owne House & ye Firste Meetinge House of Weathersfield, wherein he preacht yeares too fewe. He was well Featured & Fresh favoured with faire Skin & longe curling Hair (as neare all of us have had) with a merrie eye & swete smilinge Mouthe, tho he coulde frowne sternlie enough when need was."

Where can one find a more attractive portrait of a Puritan minister? His son continues:

"Ye first Meeting House was solid mayde to withstande ye wicked onsaults of ye Red Skins. Its Foundations was laide in ye feare of ye Lord, but its Walls was truly laide in ye feare of ye Indians for many & grate was ye Terrors of em. I do minde me it alle ye able-bodied Men did work thereat & ye olde & feeble did watch in turns to espie of any Salvages was in hidinge neare & every Man kept his Musket nighe to his hande. I do not myself remember any of ye Attacks mayde by large bodeys of Indians whilst we did remayne in Weathersfield, but did oftines hear of em. Several Families which did live back a ways from ye River was either Murderdt or Captivated in my Boyhood & we all did live in constant feare of ye like. My Father ever declardt there would not be so much feare iff ye Red-Skins was treated with such mixture of Justice & Authority as they could understand, but iff he was living now he must see that wee can do naught but fight em & that right heavily."

"After ye Red Skins ye greate Terror of our lives at Weathersfield & for many yeares after we had moved to Hadley to live was ye Wolves. Catamounts were bad eno' & so was ye Beares, but it was ye Wolves it was he worst. The noyse of theyre howlings was eno' to curdle ye bloode of ye stoutest & I have never seen ye man yet did not shiver at ye sounde of a Packe of em. What with ye way we hated em & ye goode money yet was offered for theyre Heads we do not heare em now so much, but when I do I feel again ye younge Hatred rising in my Blood & it is not a Sin because God mayde em to be hated. My Mother & Sister did each of em Kill more than one of ye gray Howlers & once my oldest Sister shot a Beare that came too neare ye House. He was a goode Fatte onne & kept us all in meate for a good while. I guess onne of her Daughters had got ye skinne."

"As most of ye Weatherfield Settlers did come afoat throu ye Wilderness & brought wit em such Things only as they did most neede at ye firste, ye other Things was sent round from Boston in Vessels to come up ye River to us. Some of ye Shippes did come safe to Weathersfield, but many was lost in a grate storm. Amongst em was onne which held all our Beste Things. A goode many Yeares later, long after my Father had died of ye grate Fever & my Mother had married Mr. Russell & moved to Hadley it was found that some of our Things had been saved & kept in ye Fort which is by ye River's Mouthe, (Saybrook) & they was brought to us. Most of em was spoilt with Sea Water & Mould, especially ye Bookes (footnote by Juliana: 'My Father hath one of these books - The Vision of Piers Plowman. It is so ruined with damp and moulte that no one can read ye whole of it.') & ye Plate. Of this there was no grate store, only ye Tankard, which I have, and some Spooones, divided among my Sisteres which was alle so black it was long before any could come to its owne colour agen."

This tankard is now in the possession of Mr. Gilbert Livingston Smith, of Sharon, Connecticut - while Rev. Mr. Smith's seal, bearing the family arms, belongs to his sister, the authoress of the volume from which we have here quoted, and a fac simile of it is given at the head of our Smith Genealogy, in Vol. II.

The incomplete, yet precious, glimpse of Wethersfield's first pastor, which this letter affords us, may be further enlarged by his will, apparently written by himself, while "in health of body and soundness of mind," some months before his death, and with an expressed wish "to leave no occasion of trouble" for his children. The amount to be disposed of was but a little over 370 pounds, but, as Miss Smith observes - "that little is so graciously bestowed that one feels as fully persuaded of the testator's own loving heart as he was persuaded of God's 'unchangeable love and good will both in life and death' . . . according to His covenant, viz." - "I am thy God, and of they Seede after thee." After this profession of faith, which evidently comes from a simple and earnest heart, the will proceeds:

"Then for my outward estate, which because it is but littel, & I have well proved the difficulties of this country, how hard a thing it will bee for a woman to manage the affairs of so great a family as the Father of Mercyes has blessed mee withall, & haue also experience of the prudence & faithfulness of my deare Wife, who shall, in parting with mee, part allso with a great part of her livelihood; I do there fore bequeath & give to her, the full power & disposal of alle that estate which God hath given mee, in houses, lands, cattels & goods whatsoever, within dores and without; only providing that in case shee marry again, or otherwise shee be able comfortably to spare it from her own necessary maintenance, that see give unto my Sonne Samuell that part of my house lott that was intended for my Sonne Peregrine, lyinge next to the burying place, and the land I have beyon great River eastward; & allso, to him & my second Sonne Noah, five acres apeece of meadow with uplands proportionable thereunto, & to the rest of my children unmarried, 20 pounds apeece, at the age of one & twenty yeares, or at the time of her death, which shall come the sooner. & for my two Daughters that bee married, my desire is that they have 20 Shillings apeece, and every onne of their children five shillings apiece either in bookes, or such other things as my Wife shall best please to part withall."

Of the 370 pounds, nearly one-half was in houses and lands; 50 pounds were in live stock (not including any domestic fowls - then quite rare in the colonies). His bees were valued at 8 pounts; "husbandry tools" at 3 pounds, 10 shillings, and arms and ammunition at 4 pounts. "Bookes" are mentioned, but their value not estimated, probably because at the time of his death, proper appraisers may not have been on hand. Ministers were then usually appointed to appraise books. "Three feather beds, with all things belonging to them," are valued at 40 pounds; tables, chairs, stools, cushions, & etc., at 3 pounds 15 shillings; "cob-irons, trammels, fire-iron," at 2 pounds 8 shillings; and "brasse, iron pots, pewter & such like" at 15 pounds; table and other linen and a carpet (i.e. a table cover)," at 14 pounds 10 shillings. And the will concludes thus, "And I desire the Church whose servant I now am, to take the care and oversight of my family that they may be brought up in the true feare of God, and to see that this my Will be faithfully performed. In witness whereof I have subscribed my name the 8th day of May, 1648." (H.R.S.)

Volume II, page 628:

Smith, Rev. Henry, born 1588, near Norwich, England, of whose coming to New England, personality, ministerial career, etc., the reader will find all that is at present known in Volume I of this history (pp. 150-156, 320) - is supposed, married the tenor of his will to have been married twice. Of his first wife nothing is known, and not even her name, and of the second wife, her Christian name only - Dorothy. After his death in 1648, she becomes the second wife of John Russell, the father of Rev. John Russell, who succeeded Mr. Smith in the pastorate of Wethersfield, and who ten years later became the first minister of Hadley, Massachusetts. Mr. Russell died 8 May, at Hadley, 1680, age 83. Mrs. Dorothy Smith Russell, died at Hadley 1694. As to Mr. Smith's land holdings in Wethersfield, see Chapter VII, Volume I.
